

What is the relationship between gender and health? How do sex, gender, and other forms of diversity impact health?

What is community based research?
What research is relevant to my community?

Why do community-based research in women's health? What are the connections and the impacts?

Interested in learning about community-based research in women's health?

Join Drs. Elana Brief and Colleen Reid, Research Directors of the Women's Health Research Network (www.whrn.ca), for an interactive workshop that explores how sex and gender influence health outcomes and ways to better understand women's health through community-based research.

Untangling Gender and Sex: Getting it right in research

This workshop will be of interest to faculty and students, members of the community and community-based researchers.

When: May 14, 2009 Time: 9:30am – 12:30pm

Where: Douglas College, Room 1620
New Westminster Campus

RSVP by phone: 604-527-5440 or by email: employeedevelopment@douglas.bc.ca

Stay for lunch after the workshop
Compliments of the Women's Health Research Network

Douglas College

The Women's Health Research Network is funded by:

